Primary In-charge message

Dear All,

With immense joy in my heart, I would express few thoughts in this edition of our school e-magazine. The primary section is one of the most strongest foundation of a child's educational journey. And in this journey, we focus on the holistic development of an individual, where we instill the values, knowledge and skills. We aim to foster creativity, curiosity and also develop a love for learning with the help of various activities. Each and every activity conducted, aims to bring out the best of the child's ability. Everyday our students are filled with energy and enthusiasm, and it is truly own privilege to witness their growth. We not only train them in academics but also help them to grow as compassionate and responsible individuals.

My greeting to all the shining stars of our school.

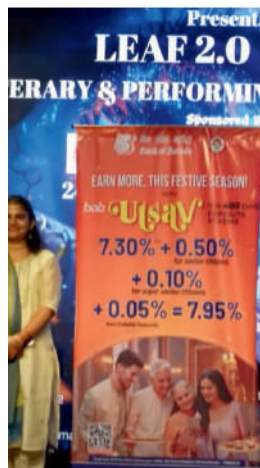

Thank you

The wolf and the lamb

One day a lamb was eating sweet grass away from her flock of sheep. She didn't notice a wolf walking nearer to her. When she saw the wolf walking, she started pleading, "Please, don't eat me", my stomach is full of grass, you can wait a while to make my meat taste much better. The grass in my stomach will be digested quickly if you let me dance, the wolf agreed.

While the lamb was dancing, she had a new idea, she said, "I can dance faster if you take my bell and ring it so hard". The wolf took the bell and started to ring so hard. The shepherd heard the sound and ran quickly to save the lamb's life.

Greedy and Friendly

Once, there lived three friends. They were quite poor and didn't have a job. One afternoon, one of the friend said, "in this village, we have no occupation, why don't we live in another city and find a job?" Three of the friends agreed to this idea.

The next day, three of them started their journey to the town. They had to pass through a forest. On the way through the forest, they found a gold bag filled with gold coins. They thought of sharing it after reaching the town, they all talked about how they spend their money.

On the way the friends felt hungry, so the eldest one of them said "I think I should go in search of food. You both wait there, let me find something to eat". By saying this, he went to the deep jungle and both of them sat under a tree.

After a while the elder one brought them bread. He secretly put the poison and tried to give it to them, so they will sleep for two hours, and he can escape with all the gold. After eating they went to deep sleep while the elder one slipped with the gold.

When he was walking, he found out that there was a lion in front of him. He stood froze because he was scared. To his surprise the lion was starving.

Suddenly two of the other friends appeared and made a fight with the lion at last they won. The elder one understood his mistake and apologized to the other two.

They continued their journey together, after their tragic incident happily.

Moral: Greediness won't suit with kindness and friendly

Short story

Mira was a young woman who worked long hours at a nearby office every day during her lunch break. She would walk to the park sit on the same creaky bench by the dried-up fountain and quietly eat her sandwich. She found comfort in the stillness of the place it was the only spot where the noise of the city seemed to fade.

One rainy afternoon as Mira sat under her umbrella, a figure appeared it was an old man dressed in a coat, his hair looked silver and wild. He walked slowly each step, he paused near the fountain staring as if he is lost in thought. Mira watched him for a moment before offering a quiet hello. The old man turned his eyes and gave a nod. He slowly made his way to her bench and without asking, sat beside for a few minutes. They sat in silence. "You come here often" The old man finally said, his voice rough yet kind. Mira replied "It's peaceful to her" He smiled faintly and said "to be beautiful, this packs the flowers, the fountains, the trees, they all thrived once. Mira glared at every grown bushes and said "What happened to it?"

The old man looked down, her hand tracing the line on his finger" Time happened "people forgot they moved on to newer places and their loved one was left behind. The next day, Mira returned to the park with a small bowl packed of seeds. She cleared a little patch of dirt near the fountain and planted the seeds everyday she would water them during the lunch break at first people ignored her, but soon started to notice a few would smile at her slowly the park started to change. One day the fountain started flowing again Mira didn't know who fixed it, but she smiled when she saw the water in the sunlight. The old man never came again. The park wasn't a forgotten place anymore. It was alive and beautiful.

The Ghost of my dreams

Once, I was sleeping after doing all my work. I woke up to drink some water. But suddenly, I saw someone outside the window. He was coming towards me. I was scared. I tried to go outside the house but, suddenly I realized that it was not my house. I somehow escaped from there and came to my father's office.

At night also, my father was working but, I saw the same person on my father's office's roof with my small brother. My brother was crying. I went on the roof and when I was trying to catch the person who was a ghost my brother suddenly fell down on the ground. I was going near the ghost and boom!

I was in an unknown place where everything was silent, only the ghost was with me. He was coming with an axe towards me. I was running and he was just behind me. I had fallen down on the ground while running and the ghost was going to kill me, but it teleported to my old school's garden. There was a saint who teleported me to my father with his magical powers. But when my father was taking me home, suddenly a voice came to me someone was calling my name.

The voice became louder, louder and more louder. This was the voice of my father. He was waking up me. It was 10:00am in the morning, I was sleeping. It was my dream!

The ship of friendship

A voyaging ship was wrecked during a storm at sea and only two of the men on it were able to swim to a small, desert like island. The two survivors who have been good friends, not knowing what else to do, agreed that they had no other recourse but to pray to God. However, to find out whose prayer was more powerful, they agreed to divide the territory between them and stay on opposite sides of the island.

The first thing they prayed for was food. The next morning, the first man saw a fruit-bearing tree on his side of the land, and he was able to eat its fruit. The other man's parcel of land remained barren. After a week the first man was lonely, and he decided to pray for a wife. The next day, another ship was wrecked, and the only survivor was a woman who swim to his side of the land. On the other side of the island there was nothing.

Soon the first man prayed for a house, clothes, more food. The next day, like magic all of these were given to him. Finally, the first man prayed for a ship, so that he and his wife could leave the island. In the morning, he found a ship docked at his side of the island. The first man boarded the ship with his wife and decided to leave the second man on the island. He considered the other man unworthy receive God's blessings since none of his prayer's had been answered.

As the ship was about to leave, the first man heard a voice from heaven booming, "why are you leaving your companion on the island?"

"My blessings are mine alone since I was the one who prayed for them," the first man answered. "His prayers weren't answered so he does not deserve anything."

"You are mistaken!" the voice rebuked him. "He had only one prayer, which I answered. If not for that, you would not have received any of my blessings."

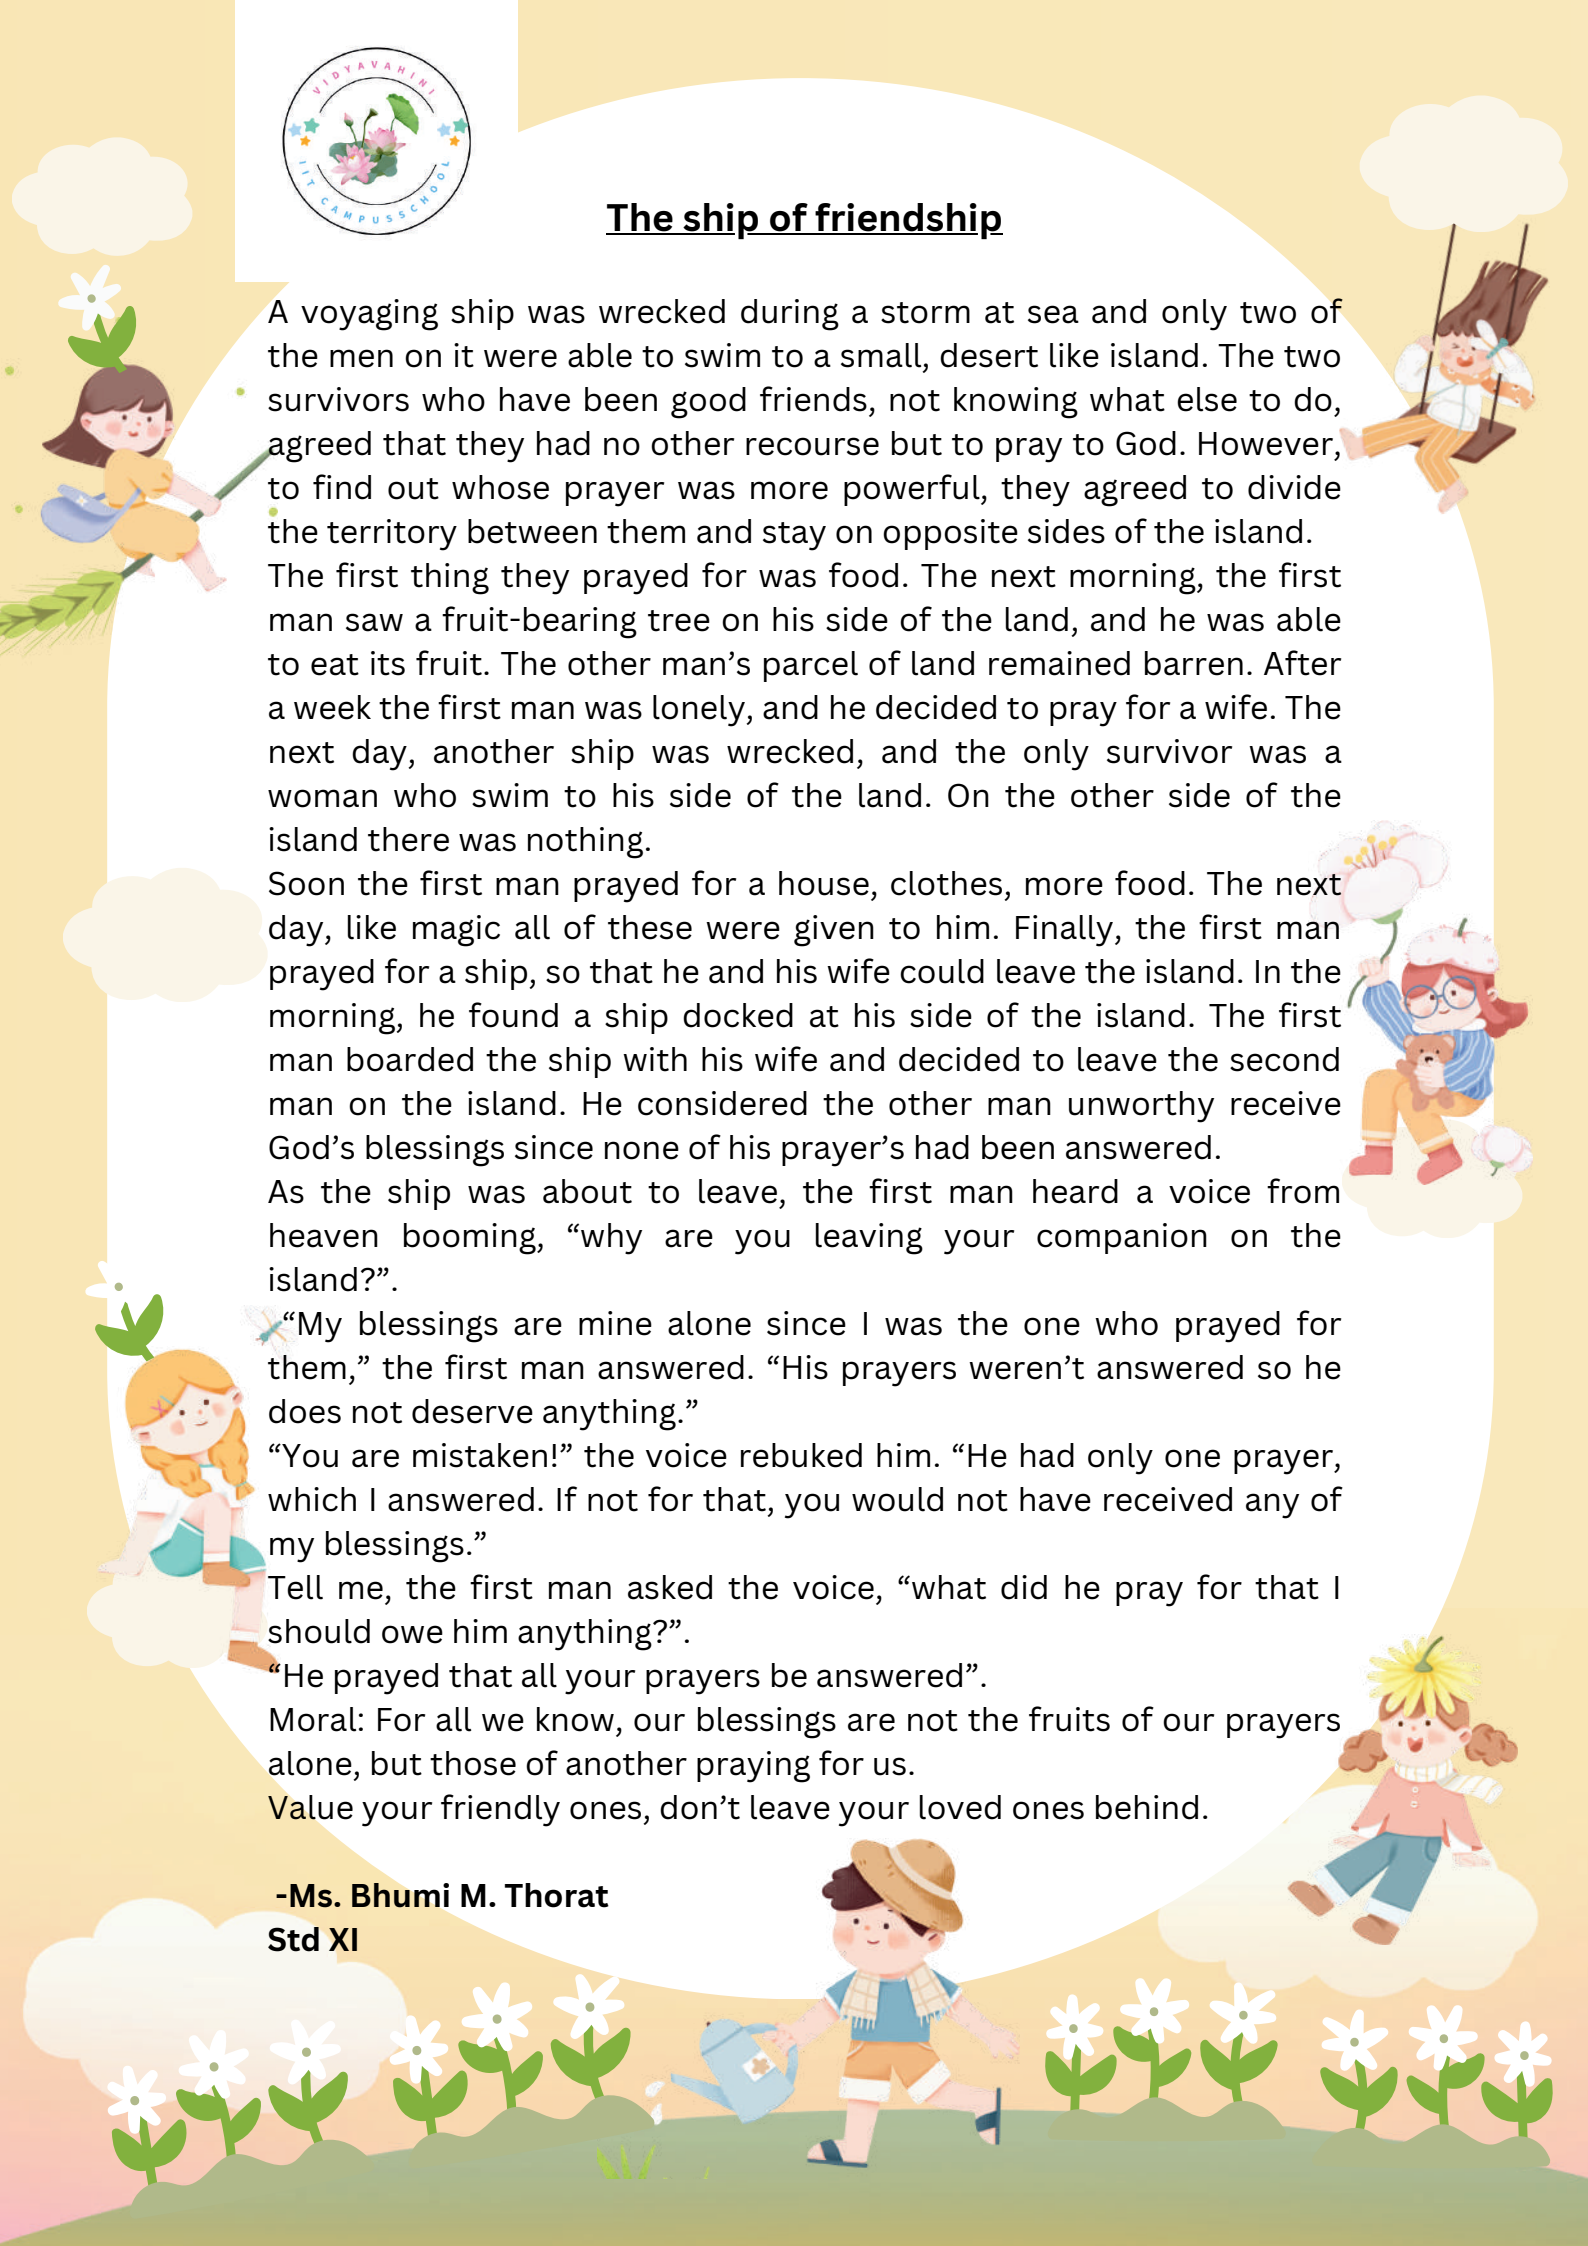

Tell me, the first man asked the voice, "what did he pray for that I should owe him anything?"

"He prayed that all your prayers be answered".

Moral: For all we know, our blessings are not the fruits of our prayers alone, but those of another praying for us.

Value your friendly ones, don't leave your loved ones behind.
